1 F-86F-25 51-13244 / 3-133 – 103rd TFS, Imperial Iranian Air Force, Kamina AB, Congo, 1963. The IIAF received the first of 52 F-86F Sabres, updated with the F-40 slatted wings and 4 underwing hardpoints, in 1960. Normally based at 1 TFB Mehrabad, 3-133 was one of four IIAF Sabres operating out of Kamina AB, between January and May 1963, as part of the United Nations Fighter Wing during the Katanga crisis. The IIAF F-86Es were very active, flying more operational sorties than the co-based Swedish and Philippine contingents combined, one of the Sabres suffering damage due to ground fire.

3 F-86F-25 51-13240 / 275 – 1st Fighter Bomber Sqn, Imperial Ethiopian Air Force, Asmara AB, 1972. The former IIAF 3-141 was one of several Iranian Sabres delivered to the IEAF during November 1970. These aircraft were active in the COIN role, using a. o. napalm canisters against Eritrean rebel forces during the 1970s.

2 F-86F-25 51-13224 / 3-140 – 41st TFS, Imperial Iranian Air Force, 4 TFB Vahdati, 1969. Around 1965, the Iranian F-86Fs were repainted in the Asia Minor camouflage scheme. They were used in the Fighter-Bomber and training roles until 1971. Their weapons included 750 lb napalm canisters, LAU-10 unguided rocket pods and M117 bombs.

4 F-86F-30 52-4576 "DRAGON" – 9th TFS, 6th TFW, Philippine Air Force, Edwin Andrews AB, Zamboanga, Mindanao, 1974. Philippine Sabres were used in the COIN role against MNLF rebel forces during the fighting in Mindanao. Several F-86Fs from the 9th TFS received this camouflage scheme during in 1973. The applied paints degenerated under the hard tropical conditions and heavy chipping appeared quickly "DRAGON" was lost due to ground fire during 1974.
